Results of the 40 years policy of reforms and openness in the People's Republic in China for the Province of Heilongjiang

In 2018 in the People's Republic of China one celebrated 40 years since the beginning of consecutive and purposeful reforming of the national economic system. It became an important impulse for the social development of China at all levels of organization, including provincial. Reformation influences had a strong progressive impact on development of the Northern Province of Heilongjiang that led to the steady growth of economic and social indicators. In the long term it is necessary to expect further progress in the regional development, to predict improvement of production and social climate. It is closely connected with the resolute continuation of the policy of reforms and openness which as it was declared at the solemn meeting devoted to the 40th anniversary of policy the Secretary general Xi Jinping will be continued and will bring the new progress of development.
